Alumni Fun Fest 2007

Alumni Fun Fest 2007 for Canadian University College and Parkview Adventist Academy was held on November 23-25, 2007. Pastor Jeff Potts, founding Pastor of the Lighthouse Church in Winnipeg, delivered inspiring messages to enhance the spiritual lives of both the students and alumni present.

Following Vespers on Friday evening, a tree lighting ceremony was held outside the Administration building. Everyone gathered around the lighted pine tree as Chaplain Paul Antunes retold the Christmas story and welcomed in the holiday season.

Fun Fest is always an exciting time with many of the younger alumni coming back to CUC and PAA to visit and participate in the weekend's sporting events.

Saturday evening was a flurry of activity with a bit of something for everyone. For those not athletically inclined the CUC Chamber Orchestra presented their Christmas concert in the CUC Administration Building Chapel.

In the Physical Education Centre an indoor soccer tournament took place. Teams were a mix of alumni, students and family and competed throughout the evening. The final game of the night was the annual alumni versus students game with the student team winning this time around.

The Lacombe Sports and Leisure Complex was the venue for the FunFest hockey tournament. Two women's teams and five men's teams played late into the evening with a few games carrying over to early Sunday morning. The pancake breakfast and All Star hockey game on Sunday morning rounded out a very successful weekend.

Amateur Hour

The first Amateur Hour of the year took place on November 3, 2007. The theme of the evening was This Hour Has 122 Minutes, a play off of the popular CBC television comedy show, This Hour Has 22 Minutes.

A lot of great performances took place throughout the evening, but in the end the grand prize went to the Lady Bugs featuring Luke Elloway, second-year Biology major; Marcus Heisler, second-year Biology major; Nik Willing, first-year Biology major; and Stefan Sremac, fourth-year Secondary Education major. The Lady Bugs won with their remix of the Beatles song, Hey Jude. According to Stephanie McCarty, a first-year Secondary Education major, the grand prize was well deserved, “I think (Hey Jude) was the best and I really enjoyed hearing the encore.” The next Amateur Hour is slated to take place in March of 2008.

Fall Fest and Multicultural Food Fair

People from all over central Alberta gathered in the CUC Physical Education Centre on the evening of November 17, 2007 for the annual Fall Fest and Multicultural Food Fair. Activities ranged from karaoke and mini golf to pillow fighting on a balance beam.

There were also ethnic dishes from the Philippines, China, and Korea as well as sweets like caramel apples. “I really loved the food there. It was fantastic. And the Karaoke was so much fun” states Nick Cherian, a first-year Business Administration major. Fall Fest is a fun way for clubs and organizations on campus to fundraise for their programs.
